

Port Augusta ©

4/5 DAY PORT AUGUSTA SUGGESTED ITINERARIES

*2WD high clearance recommended - check road conditions

DAY 1 10km return 2WD 4WD

- ▶ Wadlata Outback Centre - Visitor Information Centre
- ▶ Tunnel Of Time
- ▶ Railway Station - Curdnatta Artists Platform Gallery & Café
- ▶ RSL Military Memorabilia Museum

DAY 2 55km return 2WD 4WD

- ▶ Water Tower Lookout
- ▶ Pichi Richi Railway
- ▶ Yarta Purtli Cultural Centre & Art Gallery

DAY 3 15km return 2WD 4WD

- ▶ Blanche Harbour Aquatic Reserve
- ▶ Australian Arid Lands Botanic Garden
- ▶ Matthew Flinders Red Cliff Lookout

DAY 4/5 560km return 2WD 4WD

- ▶ Woomera - Missile Park
- ▶ Andamooka
- ▶ Roxby Downs Motel & Tavern (overnight stay optional)
- ▶ Arid Recovery Reserve

DID YOU KNOW?

Port Augusta is a hub for “Fly in Fly out” (FIFO) operations to many mines in the north of the state. Annual passenger numbers are approximately 16,000 per year (Port Augusta City Council).

BIRD WATCHING

The Australian Arid Lands Botanical Gardens are home to over 150 bird species. Among the residents are Honeyeaters, Redthroat, and Chirruping Wedgebills, alongside various other avian species thriving within the gardens.

Banded stilts are often found in the coastal salt lagoons ©

Port Augusta to Hawker

STIRLING NORTH

Merely 8kms from Port Augusta, Stirling North holds historical significance as a vital watering site for Indigenous communities and settlers alike since 1850. Today, it thrives as a tranquil residential area, blending historical charm with modern living.

QUORN

In the late 1870s, the Nukunu people's local lands in Quorn were surveyed for the Port Augusta and Government Gums Railway, later named the Pichi Richi Railway. Originally the Great Northern Railway, it sought to tap into the anticipated grain harvest in the Flinders Ranges at Rawsley Park Station. Quorn swiftly developed into a pivotal railhead and agricultural centre during the wheat boom, boasting three machinery workshops and two flour mills on Railway Terrace. The town derived its name from Quorndon in Leicestershire, UK.

Nowadays, Quorn is known for its picturesque Flinders Ranges views, cosy cafes and being the backdrop to many Australian films - Sunday Too Far Away, Gallipoli, The Shiralee, The Water Diviner, Tracks, Stan series The Tourist and Wolf Creek, to name a few and many attractions at its doorstep.

WARREN GORGE

A short 20kms north of Quorn on a sealed road, discover the Warren Gorge. From a day trip to very basic camping facilities, delight in the jagged rock formations with the colours of bright orange against the blue skies and the contrasting Cypress Pines. This 5.2km moderate rated walk can be enjoyed at any time and Yellow Footed Rock Wallabies are most active at dawn and dusk, attracted to the water from nearby creeks that run for most of the year.